Waveland splits library levy, refuses to grant extra funds

After refusing to levy any additional tax on the people of Waveland to build what one alderman called "a library for Bay St. Louis," Waveland's mayor and board of aldermen finally agreed to split the one mill that the city presently gives the City-County Library Board for operations and divert half the funds for new construction.

Library Board members approached the Waveland Board last Wednesday night after successfully drawing a pledge from the council of Bay St. Louis the preceding Monday for $20,000 to help meet a $34,000 figure that the board said they needed to raise to keep from losing a $204,000 federal grant.

Waveland's pledge of a half mill for two years, approximately $2,000 annually, reduces the needed funds to $10,000.

Benvenuti and Mrs. Linda Haas, president of the Library Board, indicated that they would seek the remainder of the money from the Hancock County board of supervisors. Board trustees have sought to raise local matching funds for construction of a new library on Hwy. 90 between Bay St. Louis and Waveland since being notified several weeks ago that the $204,000 federal grant money was available. Mrs. Haas said that the board of trustees had been trying for five years to get a federal grant to build a new $340,000 library for the county.

Benvenuti said that local sources must put up $136,000 in order not to lose the grant which is on a 60-40 matching basis. Of that amount, the board already has $54,000 on hand, he said.

The county presently levies a half mill for construction for the library board which yields approximately $16,000 yearly and board trustees are hopeful of getting that levy extended two more years. Even this though, Benvenuti said, would leave the trustees with $10,000 left to raise from somewhere.

The existing city-county library is operating in a converted service station at the corner of Dunbar and Ulman Streets in Bay St. Louis and library trustees have expressed concern over the fact that the library has outgrown the building.

In other business the mayor and board of aldermen authorized the first payment of $43,650 to Wallace Industrial Contractors of Pascagoula for work done on the Waveland sewage treatment facility currently under construction, and voted to advertise for bids for a camera for the Waveland Police Department.

Buccaneer Park to get grant

The Bureau of Outdoor Recreation announced approval Monday of a $350,000 matching grant to the Mississippi State Park Commission for development of Buccaneer State Park in Waveland.

The grant will be matched by state funds, according to Rep. Trent Lott, (R-Miss.).

State Park Commission member Perry Gibson of Bay St. Louis said that the federal grant did not mean an addition to the budget for Buccaneer Park and would not change the Commission's plans to spend $3 million for the park's development.

The Commission, Gibson said, had hoped for additional money through federal grants. The 1972 State Legislature, he said, approved a $20 million development of state parks but only appropriated $25 million.

Gibson said that plans for Phase Two of the park's development were approved earlier this month by the State Building Commission.

Phase Two, a recreation area to be called Shipwreck Alley, will include 105 Class A camp sites, tent pads, picnic tables, barbecue grills, roads, water, electricity and comfort stations.

Deputies arrest five on drugs

Five men were arrested in Hancock County on narcotics charges over the weekend in two separate cases, both in the Catahoula Creek area.

Ray Legg, 18, Ashland, Tenn. and Daniel A. Morse, 19, Picayune, were arrested shortly before dawn Sunday at Catahoula and were charged at the county jail with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. Legg and Morse were released on $300 bond each pending an April 23 hearing before Justice of the Peace Joseph Dobson.

Sunday night about 7:45 p.m., sheriffs deputies and a Hancock constable arrested Leo G. Eves, Jr., 18, Roger D. Fulton, 19, and Arthur L. Woods, Jr., 19 on Highway 43 near the site of the earlier arrest. All three are Hancock county residents.

Eves and Fulton are still detained in the county jail under $500 bond each (Continued on Page 12-A)

Massive search continues for missing Long Beach youths

The search for four Long Beach youths missing since last Wednesday was still continuing by press time Wednesday afternoon.

Long Beach police Chief Harry Kaletch, who has participated in the search, estimated that the massive search operations have cost almost a half-million dollars. Harrison County Civil Defense Director Wade Guice whose office is commanding the operation said that over 100 boats, four fixed-wing aircraft and two helicopters have been involved in the search which began Friday morning.

Missing are Gary W. Hagin, John Maxwell, Mike Brown and Jeffrey Steagall. All are 16 years old and students at Long Beach High School. The youths left Tuesday from a launch ramp on Bayou Graveline for a two-day fishing and camping trip and were to have returned home by noon Thursday.

The 14-foot boat used by the youths was found by searchers Friday afternoon south of Dog Keys Pass. A seat cushion-life preserver and a gas tank, presumably belonging to the missing men, was also found Friday almost five miles south-southwest of where the boat was located. The search operations have been hampered by bad weather and choppy seas and one of the search boats was swamped by high waves Sunday.

The youths were reported seen fishing at the mouth of Bayou Graveline Wednesday morning. Glenn Swapp, chief ranger of the Gulf Islands National Seashore, said one of the park rangers reported seeing the four camped on Horn Island Wednesday afternoon. Since that time, Horn Island has been searched by air and on foot.

Search authorities are perplexed that they have not found any of the other floatable items which the youths had with them including four life preservers, two styrofoam ice chests and a waterproof sleeping bag made of three-inch Kapok.

Coast Guard units from Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi have been involved in the search as well as Harrison County Civil Defense, the Boat and Water Safety Patrol, the Mississippi Marine Conservation Commission, the Mississippi Highway Patrol, the Harrison County Sheriff's Department, the Mosquito Control Commission, and the Open Gulf Watch.

Bill returns money to municipalities

Action by Mississippi legislators in Jackson last week will result in Mississippi's incorporated municipalities receiving substantial monetary benefits during the next fiscal year.

Bay St. Louis Tax Collector and Finance Commissioner Clarence Ladner said that Bay St. Louis would benefit by approximately $28,000 as a result of the passage of House Bill 1469 and Senate Bill 1761.

While coastal officials reported that no official word had been received specifying exactly how much each city would receive as a result of the two bills, a legislative bulletin said the bills would result in approximately $4 multiplied by the population of each city.

Using this simple yardstick the city of Long Beach would stand to come in for approximately $24,000 while the city of Pass Christian would receive approximately $16,000. Waveland would benefit by nearly $14,000 and Bay St. Louis approximately $28,000.

House Bill 1469 will take $2.5 million from the state general fund and distribute it to all incorporated municipalities on a per capita basis.

Senate Bill 1761 stops the State Tax Commission from taking $3 out of every $100 that is collected in city sales tax and returns this to the municipalities.

During 1973 this three percent charged by the State Tax Commission for collecting city sales tax amounted to $6,054 for Bay St. Louis; $1,313 for Waveland; $4,274 for Long Beach; and $2,427 for Pass Christian.

Ladner, a former state representative before he was elected tax commissioner for Bay St. Louis, said that both bills would go into effect July 1 at the beginning of the state fiscal year. Cities should receive their first funds sometime in August, he said.

Ladner said that each city's share of the $2.5 million general appropriation could either be spent for street improvements or could be used for matching federal funds. The money, he said, would be prorated on a 12-month basis.

NASA officials study MTF agency programs

Officials from NASA Headquarters and its field installations across the country met last week at the Mississippi Test Facility here to study present and future programs of the space agency to ensure efficient application of knowledge to our national problems.

Charles W. Mathews, NASA's Associate Administrator for Applications, Center directors and other key policy-making personnel from Washington and NASA's field installations reviewed activities and programs which will provide social or economic benefits to the "user" community.

The two-day "Applications Program Integration Board" meeting got under way at 9 a.m. Thursday with an official welcome to the test site by Jackson M. Balch, NASA-MTF director.

NASA and several federal, state and university organizations are involved in space and environmental investigations at the MTF.

Mathews began the sessions by reviewing fiscal year 1975 budget and outlining new programs. He said MTF was selected for the meeting "because of the somewhat unique collection of applications activities conducted at MTF by NASA and the other federal and state agencies."

Inter-agency activities were discussed during the meeting and tours of the NASA laboratories and visits to the other agencies located at the test site.

Among topics reviewed were earth observations, communications, navigation and traffic control, space processing and technology, geodesy and applied earth physics and energy distribution.

Cleary resigns

Chamber board

George Cleary, Waveland businessman, resigned as a member of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce board of directors Tuesday night.

In a letter addressed to Chamber president Nicholas Haas, Cleary said "... circumstances beyond my control and illness have caused me to come to this decision". It was a difficult decision to make, Cleary stated, and he "treasures" the two awards he received for outstanding service as fire prevention chairman, a post Cleary held for the past three years.

Cleary was voted to the chamber board in January 1973. His resignation was accepted "with deep regret", a chamber spokesman said.

Paul Montjoy, project manager for Diamondhead Corp. was named to replace Cleary, by acclamation of the board at the Tuesday meeting.

Echo editor is press award winner

Adoree Shortle, Echo news editor, was the recipient of two first place and one second place awards at a Mississippi Press Women communications contest awards banquet in Jackson Friday night.

More than 200 certificates of award, 49 of them for first place were presented at the annual formal affair held in the Heidelberg Hotel.

Ms. Shortle won a first place in the feature story category for her story on two Waveland metal sculptors and their art; a second place for her news coverage of a railroad boxcar murder; and a first place in personal columns for Red Beans and Rice, a satirical column which she wrote jointly with Marileen Maher former Echo news editor. Ms. Maher, now city editor for the daily Delta Democrat-Times in Greenville, also received a first place award for the column.

Other Coast MPW winners included six staff members of the Daily Herald and South Mississippi Sun newspapers, Terry Price Fountain of the Ocean Springs Record and Nancy Longnecker of Southern GE Cablevision Corp., in Biloxi.

Winning multiple awards in various categories were Herald staffers Pam O'Boyl, Maria Watson, Linda Sanders and Susan Irby, who won two awards for news and feature stories she wrote while a member of the Echo editorial staff. Mississippi Sun reporters receiving awards were Lynn Bernabel and Emily Germanis. Margie Anderson won two awards for display advertising.

One of three top winners in the contest, Mrs. Mildred Dearman, associate editor of the Carthaginian, also was revealed as this year's State Woman of Achievement.

Sharing the spotlight with the state's top women writers was guest speaker Josephine Foxworth, a graduate of Mississippi University for Women (formerly Mississippi State College for Women). Miss Foxworth is president of Jo Foxworth, Inc., an established advertising agency in New York. She also served as one of the out-of-state judges for the largest writing contest in MPW's 25-year history. Almost 500 entries were submitted in 20 categories covering both printed and broadcast media.

The festive event attended by husbands and guests of Press-Women was presided over by President Barbara Austin, assistant director of public information at the University Medical Center in Jackson. Another PR director, Mrs. Lois Clover of Belhaven College, was in charge of arrangements for the awards banquet.

Winners were announced by Mrs. Margaret Henry of Columbus, contest chairman, who was assisted by Jan Garrick of Wiggins, editor of the student newspaper at The W.

Questions And Answers

Our Lady of the Gulf school children who wrote winning compositions on "What My School Means to Me," had plenty of questions for the Most Reverend Joseph Lawson Howze, DD., Vicar General of the Diocese of Natchez-Jackson. Rev. Howze spoke on "The Future of Catholic Education" at the school Parent-Teacher meeting last Thursday. (See story pg. B-4.)

SHORTLES BY ADORÉE

Dear Sam,
Well, the legislators did it again. The lust for power in some of the representatives outweighed the mammonites and they zapped a bill to give themselves a raise.
It was a pretty substantial raise, but not that staggering to cause any reasonable tax payer concern. And it wouldn't have done the crowd now in office any good as, constitutionally, a raise voted in within one term can't go into effect until the subsequent term.
The Senate passed the bill handily but it bogged down in the House when a rather large majority killed it. A bill defeated in either House isn't news or unusual, but what's interesting about this one is the fact that, allegedly (isn't that a neat word?), a good many of those voting nay surreptitiously admitted that they really were in favor of the raise.
The main reason given for the double entendres was that they were afraid to jeopardize votes back home (its not cool to spend the tax payers' money where it shows). And there were even those who admitted that they were afraid of the competition.
As it stands now, one member explained, a man has to have some means to survive a term as a legislator. One can't have or have to depend on a steady job for existence and have to leave it for some four months each year for his stint in Jackson. If the pay were upped, he opined, that would open the field to more competition for the office. The point, I admit, is a little obscure, but may well be valid. I don't think anyone has done a study on it.
Unfortunately for those who were in favor of a pay hike, the matter can't be brought up again until 1980, which means legislators will have labored for 12 years at the same salary, since the last raise in '68. Kind of gives you a lump in the throat, doesn't it?
Guess the only recourse left is to plow up the south 40 and go into soybeans....that is if the soybean market holds. Of course, the Delta solons could always follow U.S. Senator Eastland's lead. Buy about a million acres of land, put it in cotton, plow it all up and collect a million in government subsidy.
Driving through the Delta one gets the feeling that several already have. Maybe they're the ones who plowed under that bill.

Bay council amends city fund resolution

The city of Bay St. Louis last Wednesday amended a motion made March 18 granting $20,000 to the City-County Library Building Fund to stipulate that funds would be drawn from "any available funds including the city fund." The council also stipulated that funds would be paid out over a five year period instead of two.
Finance Commissioner Clarence Ladner said that the council had until Oct. 1 when the budget for the 1974-75 fiscal year would be drawn up to decide where to take the money. Ladner said it was possible the city would redirect part of the one mill it presently levies which is put into an operations funds for the library.
In other business Ladner also recommended to the council that the city investigate having a personnel policy drawn up for Bay St. Louis.
The personnel guideline, Ladner said, would open up many civil service positions to the city as well as provide job descriptions for all employees.
Ladner said he was aware of a policy drawn up for the city of Waveland by the Governor's Interim Assistance Program in Jackson at no cost and asked Mayor Warren Carver to investigate the program.
"The city definitely needs such a guideline," Ladner said, "and if its free I think we ought to take advantage of it."
In other action the council fired the latest in a series of dog catchers hired by the city during the last 12 months.

HANDICAPPED JOBS

The Easter Seal Society estimates that more than 100,000 handicapped persons are locked into unemployment by lack of accessible transportation. If they could get to job sites, they would earn more than $452 million, thereby reducing welfare costs by $49 million and increasing federal income tax revenues by $39 million.

Two seek alderman's post in Waveland election Saturday

Two candidates will vie for the vote of Waveland's first ward Saturday in a special election to fill the unexpired alderman seat of John Longo elected mayor last Feb. 9.
In contrast to the mayor's election which drew four candidates and widespread who has resided in Waveland for the past seven years.

Both Johnson and Warner are in their first political race and both have been active in Waveland civic affairs.
A supervisory civil engineer for the Gulfport-Biloxi Naval Facility Engineering Com-public interest, the race for the alderman's seat has been run very low key by both candidates.

On the ballot Saturday will be general contractor Charles H. Johnson, 40, a native of Waveland, and Robert L. Warner, 41, a civil engineer mand. Warner has said publicly that he feels the board of Aldermen needs more of the type of experience that he can offer.

"I personally feel that the board needs more professional people," Warner said, "and that they have enough business people on it already."

Warner said he was expecting a close vote though. Johnson, who has had a private general contracting firm in Waveland since 1961, was formerly employed by Ingalls Shipbuilders in Pascagoula in the sheet metal supervisory department.

He is a member of the Waveland Civic Association, the St. Stanislaus Sidelines Club, Diamondhead Yacht and Country Club, and on the board of directors of the Pass Christian Isles Golf Club. He was 1974 Parade Marshal for the Krewe of Nereids.

He and his wife, the former Gerald Mae Samrow of New Orleans, have two children, Charles Jr., 22, of Metairie, La., and Cathy Ann, 20, a junior at Mississippi State University.

Warner, a graduate of the University of Mississippi, is chairman of the university's alumni admissions committee for Hancock County and a former director of the fifth district alumni association.

Also a member of the Waveland Civic Association, he has served as parade coordinator for that body's St. Patrick's Day Parade for the past six years, as well as serving as Parade Marshal for the Krewe of Nereids four times.

He is a member of the executive board of the Waveland American Legion Post 77, a member of the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, and the St. Stanislaus Sidelines Club. In 1970-71 he served as chairman of the Mayor's Advisory Committee following Hurricane Camille under the late Mayor Garfield Ladner.
He and his wife, Joyce, have one son, Robert Jr., 17, a senior at St. Stanislaus.

Hancock hospital now offers instant ECG

Hancock General Hospital has taken another big step into the electronics age, or to be more precise, into computerized medicine.

The installation of a national computer network, TELEMED Corporation, will enable Hancock General to "telephone in" electrocardiograms taken on its patients. The ECG information will be transmitted to the Schiller Park, Ill. Computer Center where it is processed. The computer will then call the hospital and a remote printer will receive the analysis.

Talking to the Computer
A technician places small electrical sensors or electrodes on the patient's ankles, wrists and chest. These are attached to the ECG cart with small wires. The technician then dials the computer center and the computer answers with a "beep" in the telephone receiver. The technician then moves a switch on the cart and code data is automatically transmitted to the computer which identifies the hospital and patient and the patient's height, age, sex and weight. Two seconds later, the computer again informs the technician via a signal light on the cart that it has received the code information and is ready to receive the ECG. A switch is flipped, and the cart automatically records the entire ECG in 20 seconds.

While the cart is taking the ECG, the computer is watching the process. At the end of the ECG, the computer lights another signal lamp on the cart telling the technician that the information was received. The technician then hangs up the receiver and waits for the computer analysis. Within minutes, a bell rings and the printer starts to type out its message.

First comes a verification of the patient and hospital code, then a series of tabulated numbers rating the various functions of the heart. Finally, a printed analysis and interpretation concludes the report.

24 Hours a Day
The big advantage of this recent development is a speedy reading and interpretation of the heart's performance, and it can be obtained at any time of day or night, a particularly valuable aid in off hour emergency cases.

It is not the intent of TELEMED's computer processed electrocardiogram service to replace man with machine, or doctor with computer. It is there to assist him by providing a rapid indication of the "normal" electrocardiogram versus the "abnormal." This allows the physician to concentrate his attention on the patient whose interpretation indicates that further clinical diagnosis and treatment may be necessary.

Maximizing the efficiency of staff physicians is a must in keeping patient care costs down. The computer collects the information and provides a general analysis faster than traditional methods. In only a few seconds, the computer makes thousands of separate measurements on each ECG before the analysis is ready for return. In addition to its speed and economy, the national ECG network assures maximum levels of accuracy and dependability.

UNABLE TO PAY THEREFOR

HANCOCK GENERAL HOSPITAL

725 Dunbar Avenue

Bay St. Louis, Mississippi 39520

The Mississippi Commission on Hospital Care has established the sum of $16,638.00 as the level of uncompensated services to be made available by the Hancock General Hospital - 725 Dunbar Avenue; Bay St. Louis, Miss., in the period October 1st through September 30th. This determination has been made pursuant to the requirements of the regulations of the Public Health Service, U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, (42 CFR 53.111) and the applicable provisions of Mississippi Medical Facilities Construction Plan. "Uncompensated Services" means services available in the facility which are made available to persons unable to pay therefor without charge or at a charge which is less than the reasonable cost of such services. The level of such services is measured by the difference between the amount paid by such persons for the services and the reasonable cost thereof.

ALTERNATE 1

The level set out above meets the presumptive compliance guideline of the Federal regulations and is 3 per cent of operating costs.

Copies of the criteria used for identifying persons unable to pay for services may be obtained from the Mississippi Commission on Hospital Care in Jackson, Miss.

The records and documents on the basis of which the above level of uncompensated services was established are available for public inspection at Hancock General Hospital between the hours of 8:00 A.M. and 5:00 P.M. on regular business days.

Environmental conservation awards announced

Two national environmental conservation education awards of $1,500 each, sponsored by the National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD) in cooperation with Allis Chalmers Corporation, were announced today.

Announcement of the national awards program was made by George Bagley of St. Joseph, La., NACD president; and Charles W. Parker, Jr., vice president of Allis Chalmers, who said, "The outstanding work that is being done in environmental conservation education at the district level deserves national recognition. Not only will these awards give credit where it is due, but, more importantly, such recognition will encourage others within the 3,000-district association to develop progressive and innovative environmental conservation education programs."

One of the $1,500 national awards will go to the Teacher-of-the-Year in environmental education; the other to the local conservation district which has developed the best environmental conservation education program in cooperation with the elementary and/or high schools in its area.

Nominations in each category must be endorsed by local districts and submitted to NACD through state associations of conservation districts for final selection of national winners. Regional and state winners will receive certificates attesting to their accomplishments. Nominations must be received by districts by May 1, 1974. The objectives of the program, according to P.T. Eubanks of Sumrall, Miss., chairman of the NACD Education Committee, are to recognize outstanding teaching efforts and conservation education programs and stimulate further efforts by conservation districts to assist schools with such programs. A primary goal is the development of a greater awareness of the value of environmental conservation education as a benefit to the young people of the nation in better understanding the principles of good resource protection, management, and use.

The Teacher-of-the-Year award is open to any teacher employed full-time by a public, parochial, or private school in the U.S., Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands who has developed an outstanding environmental education program for which he or she is personally responsible.

The District award is open to any conservation district actively engaged in a comprehensive program of environmental conservation education. The degree of district assistance in the program will be considered, together with the quality of the program and continuing emphasis on a broad spectrum of natural resource issues. Information and nomination forms can be obtained from local conservation district offices or from the NACD, 303 Belf Building, Cheyenne, Wyo. 82001.

Mrs. Clarence Evans, center, newly-elected president of Friends of City-County Memorial Library, with Mmes. William Lamb, treasurer and Robert Hamilton, secretary, admire Honorable Mention Award won in State National Library Week judging.

Local chapter of national Assn. elects officers in Bay meeting

A slate of officers was elected at a first meeting of the newly formed Hancock county chapter of National Assn. for Practical Nurses Education and Service, Inc. The meeting of the new chapter, officially titled Hancock District 19, was held at Hancock General Hospital conference room and was attended by 19 of 38 active and inactive members of the national organization.

Attending the meeting as guest speakers were Mrs. Gertrude Little, state executive director of NAPNES, Mrs. Gertrude Holmes, state NAPNES president and Mrs. N. La Combe, membership chairwoman for Mississippi.

Serving as officers for the coming year are Mrs. Margaret Harris, president, Mrs. Allyn Ramage, first vice-president, Mrs. Annette Curry, second vice-president, Mrs. Betty Necale, secretary, Mr. Erskine Skelton, treasurer. Mmes. Mary L. Evans and Esther Pepperdene were elected directors of the organization.

Mrs. Harris, a Bay St. Louis native, was a 1966 graduate of the School of Nursing at Jefferson Davis Junior College, Gulf Coast Dist. and has been in nursing service at Hancock General Hospital since graduation.

Mrs. Ramage received her training from Pearl River Junior College School of Nursing in Bay St. Louis and received her institutional training at Hancock General. She was graduated in 1968 and has been associated with the hospital since that time.

Purpose of the national organization is to upgrade the standards for these in the Licensed Practical Nurses field by providing schools, seminars and other technical training situations on an on-going basis as well as expanded benefits such as legal counsel and group insurance coverage.

Friends elect new officers

Mrs. Clarence Evans was elected president when Friends of City-County Memorial Library met Monday night in the Civic Room of Gulf National Bank.

Mrs. Ames Kergosien is the new vice-president; Mrs. Robert Hamilton, secretary and Mrs. William Lamb, treasurer.

Events to be celebrated in observance of National Library Week, Apr. 21-27 were scheduled at the meeting. The Bay Four and After Quartet will entertain at an open house at the Waveland Library on Monday, Apr. 22, to which the public is cordially invited.

A dinner at Diamondhead Clubhouse for members is planned for Thursday, Apr. 25, and on Saturday, Apr. 27, there will be a dog show co-sponsored by Bay-Waveland Humane Society.

Refreshments were served following a film entitled The Mississippi River—Its Role in American History.

Promoted

Donald Simmons, a Waveland resident for the past nine years, has been promoted to the position of purchasing supervisor with the Lafayette, La. office of Marlin Drilling Co. Simmons has 17 years of experience in oil field work. He and his family now reside in Lafayette.

Counties to get $1.6 million in tax returns

The Mississippi Insurance Department collected $20.8 million in premium taxes and other fees during the past year, Commissioner Evelyn Gandy announced today.

The $20,843,516 collected amounted to an increase of 11.3 per cent, or $2,109,983, over the previous year.

The total premium tax was $19,723,823, and it is from this premium tax collection that $4,450,000 is being paid into municipalities for fire protection.

Counties will get a healthy slice of the premium taxes also, as $1,637,356 will be paid over to county governments.

Outstanding Freshman

Agnes Wilkerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilkerson of Bay St. Louis, has been nominated an Outstanding Freshman Woman on Campus at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Miss Wilkerson was a 1973 graduate of Bay Senior High School and was a recipient that year of an American Legion scholarship. She will attend the Washington Workshop II in the nation's capitol June 16-July 7.

The young student is a member of the Newman Club at USM and Tri Sigma social sorority. She is a political science major and plans a career in law.

Nurse-aids graduate

The first nurse-aid program to be conducted at the Hancock General Hospital concluded Sunday with presentation of certificates to 11 graduates.

Al Bourgeois, counselor at Hancock County Vocational-Technical Center, presented the certificates for satisfactory completion of the six-week, 240 hour course.

The nurse-aid course was offered jointly by Hancock General Hospital and the Pearl River Junior College Vocational-Technical Center in Hancock County. A previous class was graduated last January at Picayune Hospital.

Graduates are qualified for employment as nurse-aides in hospitals, convalescent homes or medical clinics. Assistance in job placement is offered each student after training is completed.

Bourgeois said that the course was being offered periodically because of an increasing demand for nurse aides and orderlies.

Students successfully completing the course at Hancock General Hospital were Sara Duffie, Gerald Jackson, Ann Latham, Pam McCreery, Caroline Moore, and Sylvia Moore all of Bay St. Louis; Linda Hiser, Pass Christian; Glenda Cain and Mae Reeves of Picayune; Harriet Reightler of Waveland; and Zerta Thompson of Kiln, Miss.

Xavier to bring Broadway musical to the Bay

Purlie stars

Yvette Brown and Milton Granger as Lottie and Purlie in a scene from the Xavier University production of "Purlie", coming to Bay St. Louis April 7, in a benefit performance for St. Rose de Lima School.

Excerpts from the Broadway smash hit "Purlie" will be presented by Xavier University of New Orleans in a special performance April 7 at St. Augustine Seminary in Bay St. Louis.

The musical, hailed by critics in New York, will open April 26 at the Saenger Theatre in the Crescent City, an Xavier official has announced.

By special arrangement with the university, excerpts from "Purlie" as well as other musical selections will be presented in Bay St. Louis as a benefit performance for St. Rose de Lima School.

Ralph Greene, currently associated with Southern Illinois University and the Kutana Players, has contracted to be artistic director of the intra-departmental production.

"Purlie" at Xavier is the most exciting thing that could have happened," said Greene, who has wanted to direct the musical since he first saw it a year-and-a-half ago in Washington, D.C.

Equally excited about the play is Xavier Student Personnel Director Milton Granger who will play the role of Purlie Victorious Judson. Granger, a 1956 graduate of Xavier, is well known for his dancing and choreography in Xavier productions, both as a student and since his return to the Xavier campus after military obligations.

"I know how Purlie thinks. I've been there," Granger explained with the same mixture of rascal and saint that Purlie exhibits throughout the play. Michael Dixon, Xavier's Opera Workshop Director, will serve as musical director of the Ossie Davis play. Assisting him will be Dr. Julius R. Tipton, acting chairman of the music department at Xavier. John A. Fernandez, an associate professor of music and director of the Jazz Lab Band, will conduct the orchestra, composed of Xavierites and New Orleans Philharmonic members.

Neil Simon comedy next production at BSL Little Theatre

The Last of the Red Hot Lovers by Neil Simon is in rehearsal at the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre on Boardman Street, and directing the popular Broadway hit is the theatre group's talented Carolyn Kiefer.

Neil Simon's ironic brand of comedy needs no introduction to Little Theatre audiences who remember Plaza Suite, and The Odd Couple of several seasons past.

The last of the red hot lovers is a wry misnomer for Barney Cashman, a nice schmoe, who, at 47, realizes that life is passing him by. He is the man in the navy blue suit who works diligently, is a dutiful son, loves his wife, children, and home, and who suddenly is pulled up short, appalled at the going-on of years and the tepid sameness of his life. He decides to do something about it. He attempts to pick-up a little romance on the side.

And that is what the play, now in rehearsal at the Little Theatre, is all about.

The cast has had the pleasure of rehearsing in a completely finished set with all props in place, thanks to the production crew under John Holmes and to Alice Holmes who is doing the props. Mary Carter, the producer, has not yet set the date but mid-April is the target.

Long Beach conducts survey

A retail area trade survey is being conducted in Long Beach by the Mississippi Research and Development Center at the request of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce.

The purpose of the survey is to determine what kind of services consumers in the Long Beach trade area would like to have available to them. Approximately 2,000 questionnaires have been mailed to consumers in the trade area. The questionnaires were sent out in a selected random sample and persons filling them out will remain anonymous.

Information from the questionnaires will be tabulated by computer. The information will be used to improve business services in the Long Beach area.

Persons who did not receive a questionnaire in the mail but would like to participate in the survey can obtain questionnaires in Long Beach at the office of the Chamber of Commerce, the Pine Belt Savings and Loan, the Merchants Bank, and the Hancock Bank.

Notice To All Residents of

Pass Christian, Henderson Point, Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Clermont Harbor, Lakeshore (and nearby areas)

THE FIRST STEP to get railroad passenger commuter service restored on a daily basis between Pass Christian and New Orleans is to prove that there is a real demand for this service, and, if restored, ACTUALLY WILL BE USED BY THE PUBLIC.

ONLY ONE WAY can this be proven. That is to have the names and addresses of persons who will use the train either on a regular or on an occasional basis for themselves, their wives, children or grandchildren.

THUS THE NEED for facts and figures. To get this, all persons interested in having train service restored are asked to telephone or write any of the offices listed below, give your name and address, and indicate how many round trip tickets, if reasonably priced, YOU WILL AGREE TO PURCHASE EACH YEAR for the next two years.

A LITTLE HELP from everybody (including New Orleans visitors) is needed — WITHOUT THIS SUPPORT the commuter train will never be restored.

Please telephone or write to:
Mayor's Office, Waveland, Miss., 467-6301; Mayor's Office, Bay St. Louis, 467-9092, 467-9094, 467-9068; Mayor's Office, Pass Christian, 452-2626.

(If you have a New Orleans friend who visits the Coast write him about this announcement)

Coast ballet to present spring performance April 5

Sponsored by the Greater Gulf Coast Arts Council, the Mississippi Coast Ballet will present a final concert of the season April 5 at Biloxi High School.

Open to the public free of charge, the ballet performance will begin at 8 p.m., under the direction of Delia Stewart.

Two of the ballets to be presented on the April 5 performance this year, choreographed by Delia Stewart and Christina Backstrom, have been selected to appear at the Southeast Regional Ballet Festival in Jacksonville, Fla. May 2 - 5. The performance will feature modern and classical ballets and should be of special interest to all young people from age three to 93.

Soloists with the company are Delia Stewart, Molly Pisarich Johnson, Jill Wilson, Barbara Gayle Tifler, Julie Stewart, Mark Hamilton, Christina Backstrom, Donna Ladner, Kathleen Wade, Audie Smith, Ellen Booth and Donna Martin.

Two guest artists, both previous members of Miss. Coast Ballet are Cheryl Dawson, now with Mary Day's Washington Ballet in Washington D. C. and Merrily Bertucci, a recent graduate from the dance Department of the University of Utah. Both studied with Delia Stewart throughout their school years on the coast, became soloists with the Miss. Coast Ballet, then continued their dance career to become professionals.

Also appearing will be two modern ballets from the University of Southern Mississippi Dance Department directed by Patty Amacker.

The junior members of the Miss. Coast Ballet will present a demonstration piece.

Drugs and your health

by John F. Russell, M.D.

Heroin, smack, junk, scag, horse... whatever you want to call it, is here in Mississippi. "Here? Don't be silly! Maybe you find it in slums of New York, Chicago, or Boston, not in small town places like we have here in Mississippi."

You don't think it's here? Well, a couple of months ago they had a bust (arrest) in Pascagoula where agents copped (picked up, bought) two pounds of smack. Last month in Jackson they grabbed another pound. I don't know how pure the stuff was, but if it were 100 percent pure heroin, it would be worth over a million dollars on the street by the time it was cut (mixed with other ingredients to make a greater quantity) by each hand it passed through.

Yes, heroin is here. Why? Obviously someone thinks that Mississippi is a fertile ground for new addicts... virgin territory to be exploited. The time is ripe. We have been exposed to marijuana, LSD, uppers, and downers, over a relatively short period of time. One can get any of these in the junior high schools, never mind the high schools.

There is an open market in the schools where the kids have already been exposed to pot and pills, where "turning on" is becoming the "in" thing. I heard of a student in a coast high school who was offered three bags of junk for only ten dollars. That amount is worth seventy five dollars, yet the dealer was willing to take a loss to start a new junkie. He would make up for it in a very short period of time. Let's face it... heroin is HERE in Mississippi, and not in the slums! It is in our "better" schools, in our WASP neighborhoods, and "they" are practically giving it away to create a new market.

New York and Boston, Chicago and Detroit are getting too dangerous for pushers. The narcotic agents are watching customs too closely and border agents are cracking down. Penalties are too severe in the east and the "Narcs" are getting too wise.

The heroin operation has shifted to South America and our south is a perfect operating theater with its multitude of private landing fields tucked in out-of-the-way places. The south is a smuggler's paradise with air fields too numerous for agents to be able to keep under surveillance. So, we are a prime target area, a whole new territory to infiltrate, indoctrinate, and initiate into the hard drug scene.

It's coming, but at least we are aware that it's coming, unlike some areas that awaken one morning to realize that it is already too late and you can't see your way out. The signs are here already, a patch here and there... hepatitis on the increase from contaminated needles, small amounts of smack showing up every so often in a bust, and now pounds of junk appearing.

Now is the time to stop it, if we can, before it blankets Mississippi. Now is the time to get involved. The supply is coming and is available for any who want it.

We must prevent the demands from beginning or at least control it before it is too late and Mississippi goes the way of other states losing the battle against addiction.

IF I MISSED SEEING YOU DURING THE CAMPAIGN PLEASE ACCEPT MY APOLOGIES. I AM TAKING THIS MEANS OF REQUESTING YOUR VOTE AND SUPPORT, MARCH 30TH.

"Who is that new guy on the team?"

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor:

Recently, at one of the meetings concerning the Bay-Waveland Public School District, a statement was made concerning the lack of progress made by the school district over the past 20 years.

Having devoted the past 21 years of my life to this school system, I feel it imperative that I take this means to refute that statement. Please consider the following facts:

Twenty years ago more than 20 percent of the teachers did not hold bachelor's degrees and less than five percent held masters degrees. Today 100 percent hold bachelor's degrees and more than 15 percent hold masters. Four new physical plants have been completed during the past 20 years. A football stadium, baseball field, and tennis courts have been added.

Curriculum improvements included the addition of physics, senior math, honors English, industrial arts, family living, distributive education, auto mechanics, welding, and building trades, to name only a few. A curriculum committee meets each week and continually studies needed improvements to meet the needs of all students.

The pupil-teacher ratio has been reduced from 29.1 to 21.1 with a reading supervisor and 15 teacher aides added but not included in the above ratios.

Twenty years ago, no salary scale existed for teachers. All salaries were negotiated with those at Valena C. Jones school being considerably lower than those at Bay Central. The average teacher's salary at that time was $2,312. Today a single salary schedule exists with all teachers having access to this schedule and the average salary for teachers is $7,120.

The state of Mississippi accredits schools under three titles: accredited, accredited-Class A, accredited-Class AA. Twenty years ago the two schools were simply accredited. This year two of our schools are Class AA and the other two are Class A.

Teacher handbooks, job descriptions, personnel policies and evaluation instruments are all written form and available to all teachers. These things were not even heard of in this school system in 1954.

The drop-out rate has declined from 13 percent to the current four percent. I could name countless other improvements that have occurred over the past 20 years, but some of the figures for that time are difficult to ascertain. I prefer not to make any statements which cannot be corroborated with facts.

All of the above criteria are commonly used by educators to determine the quality of education in a school district.

spices until you know how much will work best with different dishes. Herbs and spices are stronger dried than fresh. Generally, two level teaspoons of fresh chopped herb equals 1/4 teaspoon of dried or 1/4 teaspoon of powdered herb. If you are using whole herb or spice, it should be added to the start of the cooking time to extract the full flavor. Dried or powdered herbs and spices can be added during the cooking time, as the flavor is released instantly.

The endangered species

The great banner held high, the world-wide hue and cry, the rank and file bandwagon for here and now...everybody's doing it, it's the avant garde, it's the "in" thing—it's anti-pollution, or the frenetic concentration on preserving an ecological balance in even the most minuscule things.

Kindergartners are coloringbooks full of ecology-oriented pictures, pre-schoolers are staring unblinkingly at new versions of Capt. Kangaroo and Sesame Street, innocently absorbing subliminal messages to "save our environment". It starts practically in the cradle and goes on forever.

One is assailed at every turn and with every breath (which must be nicotine free!) to beware, be aware, don't pollute, grow your own vegetables, don't litter, use biodegradable everything, stop the factories, throttle the cars, go electric, save power, filter water, kill bugs, don't smoke...ad infinitum. Even the way one breathes, and where one breathes, is everybody's business.

We are worrying ourselves to death about how to stay alive. The situation becomes especially sobering when one is confronted with the tragic UPI story of the slaughter of possibly 12 million chickens in Mississippi, because of pesticide contamination. Twelve MILLION chickens!

In direct contrast is a beautifully illustrated booklet we just received on wild animals and fowl, most indigenous to this country. In leafing through the booklet one realizes that the appeal is to protect the growing number of endangered species. Exquisitely and faithfully rendered drawings describe those species of wildlife which are already extinct.

One realizes with horrifying suddenness that homo sapiens is the most endangered species. We are destroying ourselves, mostly through our frantic efforts to preserve our environment.

The question arises, who will protect us from ourselves, and who will compile a beautifully illustrated booklet, showing the now extinct homo sapiens?

And who will read it?

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

Murders, wars, disasters, disease, robberies, assaults, poverty, pain—man raised his head and looked at all these things that trouble this world, and that was the inspiration for one of the most meaningful and thought-provoking poems that we have read in many a day.

The writer is a young schoolgirl in Mississippi whose name is Karen Brehm. It appeared in a little publication, "Wordcraft", put out by the Creative Writing Workshop of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College, and it should have been printed as an editorial by every newspaper and used as the text of a sermon in every pulpit.

We came upon it almost by chance. Mrs. Nell Henderson, director of the college Workshop, had sent us a copy of the small book, and we leafed through it casually, reading a short story here and a piece of poetry there, when suddenly Karen Brehm's poem hit us like a sledgehammer. It was like coming upon a brilliant jewel or a nugget of pure gold. Now, here is the poem: A man raised his head.

And made address to the Heavens: "O, Yawveh, why did you create Such a miserable world... Cruelty, hunger, Sickness, war..." God looked down at the world, And then down on this miscreant. For several moments, He finally observed: "I created no such world."

We recommend that you cut out this little poem and keep it handy to read every rainy day when, as Christopher Morley wrote, "the world is too tight around your shins". It will help you put into their true perspective such bothersome annoyances as Watergate, oil companies and unjustly increased food prices.

BYGONE DAYS

5 Years Ago... Contracts were awarded today for the construction of a new administration building for Coast Electric Power Association in Bay St. Louis.

10 Years Ago... From past results we've discovered that local juvenile delinquents read the Teen Times column, so we'll comment on a rather stupid prank that some kids pulled last Saturday night. At least five fire hydrants were opened in Waveland... two on Central Ave., two on Jeff Davis and one on Sears Ave. Water pressure in the area began to drop and men on the water department truck had to be called to out to stop the gushing water.

25 Years Ago... On Sunday St. Rose de Lima School celebrated its silver anniversary with a parade led by the Chief of Police in his new car, the band, two floats, followed by the entire school and alumni.

50 Years Ago... Maurice Perre, a resident of Bay St. Louis, has completed his new bakery building on Main Street. He is operating regularly and makes deliveries.

construction will be presented in Edgewater Mall.

The demonstrations scheduled are: Pattern Alteration, Making Pants; Unique Zipper Application; Hems; Equipment Aids in Sewing; Sewing For Men and Boys; Facings and Collars; Sleeves and Cuffs; What's New in Fabrics; What's New in Equipment.

The presentations will last for 30 minutes and will be going on in various parts of the mall from 11:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Hope to see you there.

ADD A LITTLE SPICE TO YOUR LIFE

One way to liven up a meal without adding extra calories is to add spices. Many dishes can be given new sparkle and interest with just a pinch of spice. Think about the smell of chili or pumpkin pie. They would not have as great an aroma if the spices were lacking.

Spices and herbs may seem expensive compared to other foods. They should be used in very small quantities and one jar or can may last for an entire year.

To keep herbs and spices fresh, proper storage is very important. Keep herbs and spices in tightly closed containers, away from strong light and heat. If you buy spices in boxes, transfer them to jars with snug lids. The jars that come with spice racks are good for this purpose, or you can make your own spice rack with small jars.

Whole spices keep longer than ground ones. You can buy or grow your own and crush them just before using them. Always be stingy with herbs and

REPORT to the PEOPLE

ON ACTIVITIES OF INTEREST TO

MISSISSIPPI STATE SENATE

FROM: SENATOR MARTIN SMITH

DURING THE PAST WEEK IN THE MISSISSIPPI LEGISLATURE the House of Representatives and the Senate had long hours of floor debate and voting. Thursday, March 14, was the deadline for floor action on all general bills and constitutional amendments originating in the opposite house. Both houses stayed in session until late Thursday evening in an effort to deal with the legislation on their respective calendars.

MAJOR LEGISLATIVE ACTIONS came on bills dealing with county government reform and the treatment of alcoholism and alcohol abuse.

TWO BILLS ON ALCOHOLISM were given approval by the House of Representatives on Thursday after receiving Senate passage earlier in the session. One bill creates a Division of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism within the State Board of Health, while the other requires group accident and sickness insurance policies to provide benefits for care and treatment of alcoholism.

COUNTY GOVERNMENT REFORM BILLS were passed by the Senate during the week. On Tuesday, the Senate gave 33-16 approval to a bill requiring all counties to establish central purchasing systems. Three more bills dealing with county government were passed Thursday by the Senate, including provisions permitting counties to hire a county administrator and others making it a punishable offense to knowingly approve unauthorized expenditures, offer bribes or accept kickbacks.

OTHER SENATE ACTION THURSDAY saw passage of bills providing salary increases for elected and appointed officials on the state and district levels, sheriffs, county supervisors, and employees of the state highway patrol and authorization for the enlargement of Mississippi Memorial Stadium in Jackson. The Senate had earlier defeated an appropriation of $2,500,000 for stadium expansion and funding of major improvements will have to await legislative action by the 1975 session.

THE SENATE PASSED ON TUESDAY A BILL creating the office of state medical examiner. The Examiner, as defined by the House-originated bill, would be empowered to investigate cases of violent deaths or deaths due to undetermined causes. Supporters said the measure will strengthen the performance of the state's local coroners.

A BILL GRANTING A THREE DAY CANCELLATION PERIOD ON CREDIT PURCHASES from home solicitors was also among those passed by the Senate early this week. Under the terms of the measure, a buyer could cancel a credit purchase by mailing a notice. This bill also must be returned to the House of Representatives for consideration of Senate amendments.

THE SENATE GAVE SPECIAL CONSIDERATION to two major proposals on Wednesday.

MAJOR CONSUMER FINANCE LAW REVISION governing lending of money, usury, extending credit and making credit sales was acted on Wednesday morning. The original House-passed bill was revised in the Senate Banks Committee. The Senate committee version was passed by a 32-19 vote.

The bill has been assigned to a joint conference committee to settle the differences between the versions passed by the two houses. The House bill carried a 36 percent interest maximum on small loans while the Senate version allows 38 percent, both a drop from the current 47.75 percent rates. The House bill cut credit card and revolving charge account interest rates to 15 percent, while the Senate bill would retain the current 18 percent rate but allow a one-month grace period. These and several other differences will have to be settled in conference.

THE SECOND BILL TO RECEIVE SPECIAL CONSIDERATION on Wednesday was a 60-page penal reform bill. The Senate-passed bill, an expanded version of a similar House measure, provides for reorganization of prison administration and rehabilitation and training programs in Mississippi. The bill would change the name of the Penitentiary Board to the Board of Corrections and give it the power to appoint a director of corrections and two assistant directors, one to handle in-prison affairs and one to handle the halfway house, work-release and other community-based programs. The bill also sets up a prison auditor and fiscal controller in an attempt to bring the prison under stricter financial control. Prison farming operations will be continued under the bill by granting authority for handling the farms to the Cooperative Extension Service.

MONDAY, THE HOUSE PASSED THE SENATE EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICES BILL. The House added several amendments to the original bill which sets minimum standards for licensing public and private ambulance services. The Senate concurred in the House additions and the bill now needs only gubernatorial approval to become law.

IN OTHER FLOOR ACTION WEDNESDAY, THE HOUSE passed by a vote of 69-49 a request that the State Tax Commission reappraise all property and equalize assessments throughout the state. The resolution came after a bill calling for reappraisal failed to pass the House on several occasions. The resolution must also be adopted by the Senate. While the resolution does not have the legally binding effect of law, it does express legislative intent that the Tax Commission take some action in the matter.

SEVERAL BILLS OF INTEREST TO A LARGE NUMBER OF MISSISSIPPIANS were signed into law by Governor Bill Waller this week. On Tuesday, the Governor signed a bill authorizing the establishment of a School of Veterinary Medicine at Mississippi State University and on Thursday he signed into law an act requiring approval of county boards of education on all 16th section school land leases. The Governor signed another bill on Friday which was recently given final legislative approval to grant university status to the state's five colleges.

County Agent's Notes

John W. Smith, County Agent

TOPDRESS FOR MAXIMUM GRAZING

Many fields of winter grazing are showing the need for nitrogen fertilization. Ryegrass and Small grain pastures must be topdressed if maximum forage production is achieved this spring.

If it has been 60 days or longer since you applied any nitrogen, it is time to topdress. Winter grasses can utilize about one pound of actual nitrogen for each day of grazing provided. An application of 60 to 70 pounds nitrogen per acre (200 pounds Ammonium Nitrate or 150 pounds Urea) is recommended as soon as fields are dry enough to hold up application equipment. The grass should be dry when the nitrogen is applied.

No problem with nitrate poisoning should be encountered with these rates provided a balanced fertilization program has been followed. Avoid applying nitrogen fertilizer to potholes or any area holding water that could accumulate nitrates. A buffer area adjacent to ponds should be left especially if no sodded run-off area was left when field was planted. The nitrates could get when drinking from potholes or ponds where nitrogen has been carelessly applied may be severely compounding the nitrate poisoning problem.

Where liquid sources of nitrogen are used as topdressing some foliage burn may be observed. These plants usually recover rapidly from this burn. With extreme shortage of nitrogen fertilizer the source that is available and the most economical per pound of actual nitrogen is the one that should be used. Ryegrass overseeded or sod-seeded on permanent pastures should be topdressed with about 60 pounds of nitrogen as soon as possible. Topdressing after mid-March will often cause ryegrass to hold on longer and delay the growth of the summer pasture. Graze all overseeded or sod-seeded ryegrass heavily in April and early May. The concentrating of all cattle on overseeded areas will allow other pastures of bahia and Bermuda to get started and be ready for the cattle when the ryegrass is grazed out.

A nitrogen management program utilizing proper rates and timing of applications is necessary to assure the highest forage production, reduce the possibility of a toxicity problem and produce a profit.

SOYBEAN HERBICIDES The newest of the preemergence herbicides for use in soybeans is sold as Sencor or Lexone. This herbicide offers increased control of cocklebur, sesbania and weeds.

Because of the sensitivity of soybeans to Sencor or Lexone, the Mississippi Weed Committee recommends its use only on silty clay to clay soils. It should not be used on the lighter soils, especially those with less than two percent organic matter.

For 1974, the weed committee recommends Sencor or Lexone for surface application only. Do not plant Semmes or Tracy varieties of soybeans, when using Sencor or Lexone.

SEED Soybean seed supply is adequate and quality is reasonably good. Even so, if you have not planned your acreage and arranged for the seed variety you want, do so right now. If you have seed, it is a good idea to have them tested so that you will know how good they are before planting time.

An invitation to help - RSVP

Ed. Note: This is the third of a series of articles on RSVP, Retired Senior Volunteer Program, serving Hancock County. The series is authored by Mrs. Ethel Evans, a member of the organization, and accompanying cartoons are by Mrs. Bertha Giani of Pass Christian.

The HEADSTART program at St. Rose de Lima School is exactly what the name implies - a head start for youngsters in preparation for their entry into the first grade. There are three classrooms of children being taught daily, with from 15 to 20 in each class, usually age five or six. The teachers of the regular school curriculum are in charge of learning the three R's, but RSVP volunteers offer a necessary facet to their training by holding Story Hour for them.

The VIV (Very Important Volunteer) with whom I talked was most enthusiastic about the entire scholastic training program, and especially enjoyed her hour of story telling. After the children have been served a hot lunch by their regular teacher, and while they are eating, she keeps their attention by reading to them from one of the many books she gets from the City-County Library (also a RSVP Station).

She has established a very special relationship with her group of children, and rewards their good behavior with small gifts occasionally. Much to their delight she wore the costume she was to wear to the Senior Citizens Mardi Gras party immediately following her story-hour.

Our sketch today portrays a lady VIV at story-hour, but there are also gentlemen volunteers who enjoy working with the children.

Many humorous anecdotes are related regarding the children's reaction to their story-hour teachers. For instance, when one volunteer came dressed in a white raincoat, one little girl asked, "Are you a doctor?" When the answer was "No, but I am a nurse", practically the entire group screamed as one, "Watch out, she's got a needle!"

On another occasion one small lad asked a gentleman volunteer, "Aren't you my Grandpa?" And another volunteer, noticing that one little boy's shoe strings were untied, suggested he come closer so that he could tie them. Almost immediately every other headstarter in the room who had shoe strings untied them and came forward for similar attention.

This particular phase of volunteer work for the RSVP program is so rewarding and so necessary. Would you like to be a VIV working with the Headstart program? If so, phone the RSVP office at the Valena C. Jones Center (467-9204) and the director, Mrs. Fred H. Fisher, or the assistant director, Mrs.

Monroe James, will be happy to add your name to their roster of volunteers.

The Contest to choose a name for the Volunteers depicted in our sketches continues, and your suggestion just might win the prize, so send it to the RSVP Office, Valena C. Jones Center, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi. (NOT TO THE ECHO, PLEASE!). The winner will be notified at the end of April.

State commissioner warns against unlicensed companies

State Insurance Commissioner Evelyn Gandy today warned Mississippians to beware of advertisements currently being offered by insurance companies which are not licensed to do business in the state.

Such companies have not complied with state insurance laws and do not come under regulation of the State Insurance Department which Miss Gandy directs.

A number of complaints have been lodged against unlicensed and unregulated companies recently, but under state law the Insurance Department has no jurisdiction over these unlicensed out-of-state companies.

Several of these companies have recently flooded the state with paid advertisements, and Miss Gandy strongly urged Mississippians to check carefully before doing business with such companies.

An example of such a company is the Public Service Life Insurance Company of Texas, which has been selling policies known as the Rural Co-Op Plan. The policies are sold solely by mail from the company's home office in Texas. This company is not authorized to have any agents operating within Mississippi borders and is not licensed to transact insurance business in Mississippi in any manner.

Another example is the Bankers Commercial Life Insurance Company, of Dallas, Texas, which has advertised heavily in Mississippi.

"The Mississippi Insurance Department has no jurisdiction or control over the unlicensed insurance companies which use the federal postal service and other national advertising media for soliciting business in Mississippi," Miss Gandy said, "and we could render no material assistance in the event of difficulties.

Therefore, we strongly discourage the residents of Mississippi buying insurance from an unlicensed insurance company."

Miss Gandy's Department has trained specialists in all fields of insurance to assist the public with problems involving insurance companies, and during the past year the Department helped Mississippians recover approximately $500,000 in claims and other benefits from licensed companies.

Mini-school night points up unique school system

Parents, students and faculty members of St. Rose de Lima School in Bay St. Louis recently enjoyed a unique "mini-school night" in observance of National Catholic School Week.

School was dismissed after lunch on Tuesday and the children reconvened for the evening session at 7:30 p.m. a time more convenient for parents and friends to experience some of the new and provocative daily learning situations of their children.

The adults were given an orientation by Sr. James, principal, in the school cafeteria. Sr. James briefly explained the philosophy, curriculum and teaching methodology at St. Rose. "Trust, respect and responsibility," she said, "are the key behavioral goals between and among faculty, students and parents. All learning situations - whether individual, small or large groups - are set up according to the needs of children; never for the convenience of teachers. In this continuous progress program each child's unique personhood is an acknowledged starting point. Therefore learning rates and styles are bound to differ and the faculty teams reflect this in their programming."

Sr. James feels that the main success of the multi-activity centers which give personal attention to children's needs is due to the unique staffing at St. Rose. There are five basic learning areas - the primary, lower and upper intermediate, junior high and learning resource center. Each learning area teacher is the team leader. There are four full-time aides. Eleven Divine Word Seminars join the teams during the Language Arts and Math Blocks each day and several parents give invaluable daily or weekly assistance. Sr. James invites and encourages other parents to give one hour a day or week so that more children's needs can be satisfied.

During the mini-school session visitors were invited to tour the different learning areas, observe the students and faculty in action and to join in any group that particularly interested them.

At the conclusion of the program the entire group moved to the cafeteria where refreshments were served by Mmes. Joe Labat, Jerry Lang, Emile-Hazeur and Jean Garrett.

PROCLAMATION

A PROCLAMATION DECLARING THE WEEK OF APRIL 1 TO APRIL 6, 1974 AS EMPLOYER SUPPORT WEEK FOR EMPLOYEES WHO ARE IN THE NATIONAL GUARD AND THE MILITARY RESERVE

WHEREAS, the National Guard and the Military Reserve Forces are important to the defense of our country, and WHEREAS, the week of April 1 to 6, 1974 has been set aside as an Employer Support Week on a nationwide basis or program to insure the support of civilian employers of those employees who participate in the Guard and Reserve, and WHEREAS, the Guard and Reserves help considerably in decreasing defense costs,

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Board of Supervisors, City of Bay St. Louis and City of Waveland cooperate in the nationwide program of supporting the National Guard and the Military Reserves during the week of April 1 through 6, 1974, and further that the Board of Supervisors, City of Bay St. Louis, and City of Waveland as a matter of policy will not in any way penalize any employee for time spent in the National Guard or Active Reserves.

Reflections of the past

County improvement noted

Two thirds of the state's counties are enrolled in a Mississippi Economic Council-sponsored comprehensive county development program and are making giant strides in county government improvements.

The Economic Council's Community Services Committee Chairman Jack E. Harper, Jr., of Indianola reported that 55 of the state's 82 counties are participating in MEC's MERIT Program for county development.

Chairman Harper, a knowledgeable man in county government due to his experience as Chancery Clerk for Sunflower County, said, "MERIT is a carefully designed program of county development that emphasizes self-evaluation and organized planning."

"Standards and guidelines are set in 10 important areas of county affairs: beautification, education, county finance, fire protection, health and sanitation, law enforcement, long-range planning, public libraries, public works, and recreation. The participating counties strive to attain excellence in the categories by reaching the standards, thus earning MERIT awards," Harper said.

Nineteen counties have earned a total of 31 awards since the program was initiated in February, 1972. All enrolled counties are working toward standards established in each development category, Harper said.

"Many counties have made much progress in county development through the combined efforts of citizens and county officials working through the MERIT Program," Harper said. "County law enforcement agencies have been updated; public school accreditation has been raised; solid waste management has been improved; countywide planning commissions have been established; library services bettered; county recreation programs instituted, as well as other improvements made that are vital to the citizens of Mississippi counties."

In pointing out the improvements made in the MERIT counties, Harper said, "The Mississippi Economic Council praises these counties participating in the MERIT Program for their dedication to better county government in Mississippi."

"We are also inviting the counties not enrolled in the program to join in our efforts for total county development."

ERIC NICHOLS

Job Corpsman Eric C. Nichols of 310 Sycamore St., Bay St. Louis, Miss., took part in the 178th graduation exercise of The Singer Breckinridge Job Corps Center March 27, in Morganfield, Ky.

Corpsman Nichols successfully completed studies in appliance repair and plans a career in the field of commercial heating, refrigeration, and air con.

Major R. E. Dietmeier, USMCR, made a presentation on the upcoming campaign, designed to generate employer awareness of the National Guard and Reserve forces, before Bay and Waveland city officials and Chamber of Commerce representatives attending the meeting.

The per diem and expense request, the resolution further stated, was an effort "to keep and attract good members in the planning commission". A mileage allowance is sought as well since most of the commission members live out in the county and have to travel "great distances" for meetings and other necessary activities.

Supervisors also agreed at the special called meeting to give full support to the Department of Defense's Guard and Reserve Support Week April 1-6.

Back school reunion planned

In 1870 the Brothers of the Sacred Heart opened the St. Stanislaus Back School, which was a free day school for the boys of Bay St. Louis. This school was affectionately known as "Rip's University" or "The Sarbonne," and was the chief source of education for many boys in the Bay area.

In recent months there has been a growing interest among former students of the St. Stanislaus Back School to come together for a reunion to share memories of their past days at the school. On Monday, March 25, Ellis Cuevas, E.J. Marengo, Brother Leon, and Brother Aquin Gauthier met informally to begin laying groundwork for this reunion. When a list of former "Back School" students is acquired, a committee will be formed.

Plans will then be formalized as to the type of reunion to be held and a date for the reunion will be set.

At the present time, anyone who attended the St. Stanislaus Back School is asked to give his name and address to Brother Aquin Gauthier at St. Stanislaus, by calling 467-9057 or by mailing the information to P.O. Box 351 in Bay St. Louis. This information may also be given to Ellis Cuevas at the Sea Coast Echo or E. J. Marengo.

Those with information of former Back School students are asked to assist in the project by contacting any of the above men. Anyone having pictures of the Back School could help by submitting these pictures to Brother Aquin at St. Stanislaus.

Mertz to run for U.S. representative

Karl Mertz, of Long Beach, a public school teacher, announced that he has filed for the office of U.S. Representative from the Fifth District. He will seek the Democratic nomination.

Citing Rep. Lott's stands against minimum wage expansion, fuel-price roll-backs, and full equality for women, Mertz said, "Our district has more clear-thinking, progressive people than most places I know of. They deserve a congressman whose views are compatible with the 'New South,' not with a bygone era."

Mertz said he will campaign on a positive platform to improve the quality of life in America and strengthen human rights. "I'll propose major initiatives in education and employment, and progressive reforms in taxation and consumer protection," he said.

Mertz, a Navy veteran, worked as a counselor to high school drop-outs and church youth director before teaching. He is a former national president of the junior college-national honor society, Phi Theta Kappa.

The 29-year-old candidate is a special honor graduate of Perkinson Jr. College, and received a B.S. in political science from the University of Southern Mississippi. He also has completed a year of seminary at Emory University in Atlanta.

Mertz said, "If you're looking for more of the same, then I'm not your man. I'll be calling for a series of live T.V. debates, and for an end to behind the scenes arm twisting by Colmer and Eastland." He added, "It's time the average man decided an election for a change."

Mertz's wife, the former Claudia Lewis of Gulfport, and their two sons, reside at Route 1, Box 502, Gulfport.

Mertz said he will campaign on a positive platform to improve the quality of life in America and strengthen human rights. "I'll propose major initiatives in education and employment, and progressive reforms in taxation and consumer protection," he said.

In The Pass

BY LORRAINE BOWES

Mrs. Alma Ruspoli, legislative chairman for the Ladies Auxiliary of Post No. 5931, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has received encouraging answers from the public officials to whom she wrote requesting assistance in getting prayer back into the schools. Mrs. Ruspoli is asking individuals in the community to also write to their congressmen and senators. She asks that people with similar opinions please assist her in this project.

Pass V.F.W. Post No. 5931 and Auxiliary are planning a bazaar for May 4 and 5 in the War Memorial Park in Pass Christian. This bazaar will be part of their Loyalty Day program this year. The proceeds from this will buy flags which will be displayed in Pass Christian on special days by the V.F.W. and their assistants. This project is the first in a series of fund raising events for this program. It is a long-range one, to be completed for the Bi-Centennial Year 1976. Mrs. Norma Bonney, program chairman, urges everyone to participate in some way. For further information please contact her or co-chairman, Inez Bourdin.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kohl of Pass Christian are the proud grandparents of another little "Aussie." Their daughter, Jane and husband, Lloyd Callender of Wollongong, Australia presented them with a lovely little granddaughter, Helen, on March 11. Grandmother Kohl has already arrived in Australia to greet the newcomer to the family and Grandfather Kohl is on his way over.

The April meeting of the Pass Christian Garden Club is the scheduled time for confirmation of election of new officers. Chairwomen of the nominating committee are Mrs. Virgil Giani and Mrs. Dorothy Dennis. Nominations are: for president, Mrs. Grover Brandt, first vice-president, Mrs. Edward Dinkelspiel, second vice-president, Mrs. Leo Allen, Recording secretary, Mrs. Phillip Pugh, Corresponding secretary, Mrs. Harry Wittman, parliamentarian, Mrs. William Curren, and historian, Miss Marjorie Knost. Installation of officers will take place at the annual May meeting.

Among college students home for spring break were Keith Benvenuti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Benvenuti, and Ben McMuth, Jr., son of the Ben McMuths, Sr. Keith and Ben, once neighbors, are now rivals, with the former at Ole Miss and the latter at L.S.U.

Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post No. 5931 and auxiliary entertained 50 veterans of the Gulfport V. A. Hospital on March 13 at their post home in the Pass. The patients were served a delicious seafood dinner prepared by the ladies of the auxiliary. Following the meal games were played for prizes of canteen books, candy bars and fruit. Commander John Botos welcomed the group and recognized the following guests: From Biloxi, Hubert Barnes, V.F.W. State Hospital Chairman, Mrs. Freda Barnes, State VAVS representative, Mrs. Louise Mattison, VAVS Deputy to Biloxi V. A.; From Gulfport, Mr. and Mrs. James Maxwell, VAVS representative to Gulfport V.A.; From Pass Christian, Mrs. Norma Bonney, State Hospital Chairman, Mrs. Minnie Holley, VAVS Deputy to Gulfport V.A.; and Mrs. Janet Anderson. Mrs. Mary L. Botos, auxiliary president, did an outstanding job of supervising the cooking. She was ably assisted by Mmes. Alma Ruspoli, Lula Vella, Louise Ulrich, and Norma Plano. The Post men conducted the games and assisted with serving. Gentlemen assisting were Earl Holley, Charles Marant, Jimmy Necaise, Steve Plano, Frank Ruspoli, Lester Sperier, R. K. Anderson and Delmore Bonney. A great help to the evening was Tommy Jermyn of the Gulfport V.A. who is a recreation specialist. His aid was much appreciated.

First District V.F.W. Convention committee met March 17 at the V.F.W. Post No. 2539, Gulfport. Chairman Robert Zinkle made the following appointments: Al Woodward, Banquet chairman; Mike Smandra, Ad chairman; Betty Moreau, raffle chairman; Violet Maxwell, secretary. From Pass Christian Post No. 5931, Mary Lou Botos was named registration chairman, and Norma Bonney, publicity chairman. First district commander and president, Mr. and Mrs. Diamond Blakeney of Long Beach urge everyone to make their reservations early. Final plans are to be made at the April meeting, tentatively set for April 21 at the Gulfport post.

Anyone who did not visit the City Hall and Library last Thursday to view the exhibits of the Arts and Crafts Festival really missed a treat. The show, sponsored by the Pass Christian Rotary Club in conjunction with the Garden Club pilgrimage drew a large number of people. From my "bird's eye view" in the City Clerk's office, I saw a steady stream of visitors all day to the council room where the ceramics and several other hobbies were set up. The great thing about the whole project was that there was something to appeal to every taste.

It would be impossible to catalog each and every exhibit but among those that drew raves were Leola Demetz's exquisite white figurines and Sis Wesson's beautiful lamps and large ceramic animals. Also, Colonel and Mrs. Elmo D. Nolan's display of bottles filled with colored sands in unique designs caused many a comment and a lot of questions concerning the technique involved. Tui Abbley's ceramic dolls in a variety of costumes, made a lovely display that pleased old and young alike.

Fascinating demonstrations were put on at the library. Isabelle Keating of Gulfport, had an interesting display of her wares and showed visitors how to use a pottery wheel illustrating the beginning and end product. In another corner, Fred Rendfrey of Pass Christian gave a demonstration on stained glass and rug weaving. Across the room, at a loom, showing the art of weaving and lending an old fashioned air to the day's events, where Ellen Waff and Linda Dinos of Long Beach. Adding a nautical flavor was John Parker of Pass Christian very ably demonstrating the decorative net casting.

Many local artists, one of which was the Pass's own, Zell McMuth had interesting paintings on display. One exhibit that certainly deserves mention was the Indian Arts group showing the techniques of leatherwork and metalwork. These young men were very adept with their tools and had some lovely samples of their work on view.

Open for business

Mr. and Mrs. William Bilbo are the operators of Bill's Fast Food Service, a new drive-in business located on Third and Sycamore streets in Bay St. Louis, offering a wide variety of short orders.

Government approved pamphlets better than outside publications

A representative of the Gulfport office of the Social Security Administration advises that several people have asked whether books on social security being advertised in newspapers, magazines, and on radio and TV were acceptable references.

Others have asked whether the information these advertisers are selling is available without charge from the social security offices. The correct part of it is, according to the spokesman.

on the south porch of the library. The Pass Christian High School Pirate Band gave us a taste of their art with a concert presented in the parking lot between the city hall and library. Very well done. I'm sorry there wasn't time and space to mention every exhibit because they were all so good and everyone's hope is that this will turn out to be an annual affair.

Two ladies who seemed to enjoy the pilgrimage and arts show thoroughly, were Mrs. Jerry Andersen and Mrs. Francis Hursey. Accompanying them was Mrs. Hursey's daughter, Mary Alice, a student at Jefferson Davis Junior College.

Happy birthday last Monday to Patsy Andersen. Since she knew it was for publication, she told me it was her birthday, but not which one! Happy Birthday anyway, Patsy.

The answer to the first question cannot be as short as the answer to the second, he said. There are a few publishers who work hard to prepare useful booklets on social security—usually for distribution through reading racks of large firms, news services, and through national organizations.

The Diamondhead Garden Club declares pilgrimage a huge success. Garden Club president Mrs. George Sorensen expressed her appreciation to members for their efforts in making the annual spring pilgrimage held last Wednesday March 20th a huge success. Over 550 guests registered in the Sorensen home which was featured on the tour. 550 ladies enjoyed a buffet luncheon at the Country Club. Diamondhead sales office provided three buses to take visitors to points of interest on the tour. The Walter Gex home registered some 500 guests also. This is the club's second year to participate in the festivities, and visitors came from three states. It was a delightful day enjoyed by all.

The Diamondhead Garden Club will hold its April 2 meeting beginning at 10:30 a.m. at the Country Club followed by a luncheon. Election of officers will be presented by nominating chairman Mrs. Malcolm Mundy. A tour of Mrs. Augustus Elmer's gardens will follow the luncheon. The Diamondhead Ladies Social Luncheon Club will feature a dramatic reading at its March 29 affair by Mrs. Pat Grevenberg, president of Le Petit Theatre du Vieux Carre in New Orleans. Mrs. Grevenberg is a talented actress, well known to theatergoers in the area. Make your reservations by March 28 by phoning the Club at 452-9491.

The Firemen's Association met in March at the Country Club under the direction of Mr. Edw. Friolux. In attendance were the Tom Sheltons, Walter Gexs, Tom Dickersons, George Sorensen, Sam Parnell, The Ken Sauers, Mrs. W. L. Temple, Don Wodjacz, John Lewko, the Al Buffats, the Tom Cotters, Billy Maggio, Virginia Criss and Maxfield-Lunds. New committees were formed. The assistant fire chief is Mr. Billy Grice. The new fire engine will arrive September 1st. It was noted that our new water tower hold 500,000 gallons in the tank. The fire station plans have been sent to New Jersey for approval, and it should be confirmed by July 1st. Other new equipment has been ordered.

Weekend guests of the George Sorensen were Dr. and Mrs. John Trautman of Covington, La. Their son, Dr. John Trautman Jr. is head physician at Carville. The Tom Cotters spent last weekend in Ruston, visiting their daughter and family. In the village last weekend were Mrs. Ruby Grandal the Louis Gapitons and their guests, the Syd Dufours and family, the John Knoffs and their guests, all of New Orleans, and the Walters Halls of Bay Springs, Miss. The Herb Larsens of Baton Rouge were in last weekend enjoying their lovely summer home. Dr. Frances Mayfield is spending time in her summer home on Golf Club Drive, and Ted Gabb Jr. was in last weekend with friends enjoying his Golf Club Drive home. The Ruby Valentinos and daughters spent last weekend in their condo. Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Warren of Jackson were in their Kona Villa Condo last week as were the William Butlers, also from Jackson. On the sick list recently were Miss Rachael Gex, Master Ross Sorensen, Bruce Messick and Bill Temple. Mr. and Mrs. Gary Messick and family spent last week with the Bill Temples. The Messicks came from Poplarville.

Diamondhead Ladies Golf Association held a guest day event last Thursday. Alma Dobson had low gross score, and Gloria Forstall had low net score.

Among guests participating, Lee Mills won low net and Liba Holigreve had low gross. Next Thursday will be "Pick a Pal" day. The golf course has been used to full advantage with all the lovely spring weather we are having. The golf course is looking green and lush.

Echoes

Week-end guests of Mrs. Ethel Garcia were Ronnie Dugas and her grandchildren Kathy, Jimmy and Jeanne Dominique of Lafayette, La. Visiting with her Monday was her daughter Sister Norma Garcia of Baton Rouge.

The only thing we could gripe about as far as fishing went the past week was the excessive high tides in the afternoons. Fish are beginning to bite a little better with bass and perch heading the list. Not too many salt water fish are being caught right now. Here it is practically the end of March and no signs of soft crabs. The high tide at night is probably the reason. There will be plenty time left to get the delicious little soft crabs when they start giving. Cooler nights could be another reason. Soft crabs prefer warm weather and water. Old timers are not worried and said they will be in soon. Henry Lang one of our informers is making checkups regularly. He is one of our best soft crabbers and enjoys going after them. Floundering of course comes a little later on.

Plenty of bass and perch have been caught at different places. The Pearl River area has been furnishing some excellent bass fishing. Most bayous of the area furnish plenty real perch fishing. Some good catches of the prized little fish are being made everyday, wherever clear water is found, and they are running nice size. Being caught mostly are Blue Gills, Goggle-eye, Sac-a-lait and Lake Runners. They all come under the bream family.

A lot of hunters were made happy last Saturday when the turkey season opened in Mississippi according to the Mississippi Game and Fish Commission. The Commission has announced that the running of dogs is prohibited in counties open to hunting during the spring turkey season.

The season opened Saturday and runs through April 21—same period as the Louisiana season.

A new regulation approved by the 11-member board of commissions broadens the anti-dog regulation to prohibit the use of dogs during daylight and nighttime hours through the end of turkey season.

Sorry to report the death of Earl F. Ramond last week. Earl was the son of the late Ferdinand Ramond. He was 61 years old, and enjoyed fishing. Sympathy is extended to the family.

Was quite a surprise hearing from Tom Landy of Greenville, Miss. the other day. Tom and I played golf at old Pine Hills golf course. He was employed by the course and later went to Greenville where he was pro until about two years ago when he retired. We know the old-time golfers will remember Tom. He was down on the coast attending the funeral of his brother-in-law, Earl Ramond. Few local golfers remember the old Pine Hills Hotel and Golf Course. About forty years ago to be exact.

Someone said: "Women are the only problem men like to wrestle with!"

Another old friend and golfer Mickey Bellande came from behind to defeat Andy Pilney in the Metairie Seniors Invitational. Tournament Saturday, for the 1974 title 3 and 1. Mickey hails from Biloxi and held the Miss. title a couple of times. Old timers, Carey Spence, C. C. McDonald, Sr., Sydney Prague, the late Bob Genin, yours truly, and others played with Bellande. Keep up the good work, Mickey.

both down by Bayou Caddy and at Cedar Point. According to reports they are mostly gumbo size but it is a sign that they are coming in.

Sunday the weather was rather cool again registering around 44 in the morning. This weather again affected green trout fishing and perch fishing considerably. However regardless of conditions Alden Mauffrey and Dec Elliott caught 24 bass and 6 perch by the hardest. The bass were still hitting Repala lures.

Sunday and Monday's cold weather put a crimp to fishing both days. Winds were high and rough water prevailed. Practically no salt water fish were caught anywhere.

Jimmy Travirca, one of our best fly fishermen, said he is waiting for the time to go fishing. Said he had not wet a hook in some time. Must be slipping Jim?

Sportsmen like different sports. Some fish, hunt, play tennis, etc. For those who like golf the lineup for the G.N.O. Pro-Am golf classic shows such golf pros as Johnny Miller (Winner of the Heritage Tournament held last week), Jack Nicklaus, Bruce Crampton and many other golf greats. The tourney will be played this weekend in New Orleans.

Everything is lining up fine for the S.S.C. Annual Seafood Dinner to make it a great success. It will be held this coming Saturday, March 29, 5 to 8 p.m. at the St. Stanislaus cafeteria. Bring the whole family to enjoy a wonderful seafood meal.

A different fish is the Bowfin (mudfish, choupique.) It is a swamp fish and can live in foul water or for a long time out of water. It has no value as a food fish but is quite a scrapper when hooked.

Social Security recipients get supplemental payments

Supplemental Security Income payments are being made to some 5870 recipients who reside in the counties of George, Hancock, Jackson, Pearl River, and Stone according to Charles E. Wofford, district manager of the social security office.

These beneficiaries were receiving payments from the welfare departments prior to January 1, 1974, when the Social Security Administration took over this newly federalized program. The payments were paid to 3934 old age beneficiaries, 126 blind individuals, and under the aid to the permanent and total disabled, 1810 individuals have qualified.

"Benefits to these individuals are paid from general revenue funds and not from the social security trust funds," he said. The total cost of this new program will be paid by the Federal government and will come from taxes paid as income and corporate taxes.

Some states have elected to pay a supplemental check to those who previously received more money when they were paid by social security and the welfare departments. In Mississippi a supplemental check is being issued to former welfare recipients who would have lost money under the new program.

Wofford also stated that some 2012 other individuals who were not receiving any payments before January, 1974, have filed claims under the new Supplemental Security Income program. He urged other individuals who are age 65 or over, blind, or disabled and who have limited income and resources to contact the nearest social security office and inquire about the possibility of becoming entitled to some additional payments. He emphasized that an individual who received more than $160 (or a couple—$210) in unearned income such as social security, veterans administration or similar payments will be unable to qualify for any more benefits. Claims for these payments may be completed by calling the local social security office. The telephone number for the Gulfport office is 896-1324 and for the branch office in Pascagoula, it is 762-3370.

National education society initiates Bay resident

Mrs. Sharon Novak Goldin, professor of education in the 117 DeMontuozin, Bay St. Louis, Miss., has been initiated into Epsilon Beta, Tulane University chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, national honor education society.

The organization encourages high professional standards in the field of education and recognizes outstanding contributions to education, according to Dr. Thomas E. Patrick, associate

Robinson on honor roll

Some 373 students were listed on the honor roll at Mississippi Valley State University for the fall semester.

To be eligible, a student must obtain at least a 3.0 point overall average on a four point system during a given semester.

Among those receiving this distinction was Earl Robinson, a senior majoring in elementary education.
